Culture becomes measurable discipline.

HR executive, author and leadership advisor. I help leaders turn culture into method, rhythm and evidence — treating culture as a living system that is integrated and measurable, not as a subjective concept.

WHO HE IS

Not the consultant who studied it. The executive who answered for it.

Global Director of HR, Transformation and Culture at Vale: 170,000 people, 12 countries, direct interface with the executive committee. At Carrefour Brazil, he led the post-merger integration of Grupo BIG — R$1.7 billion in synergies, turnover down from over 70% to 35%, and Brazil's largest corporate leadership school, with 8,000 leaders. Before that, McKinsey.

Author of The New Code of Change. Twice named one of Brazil's most admired HR professionals. LinkedIn Top Voice and member of the Forbes Human Resources Council.

“The problem is not who you hire.
It is the system the company built around people.”

THE METHOD

The New Code of Change

15 Codes organized into three forces. Every engagement — stage, program or boardroom — runs on the same methodological spine.

FORCE 01

Awareness

See the system. Diagnose without illusions, find what is worth preserving, build metrics and rituals, surface the leader's shadow.

FORCE 02

Courage

Mobilize people. Connect in order to lead, give ownership, use diversity as legitimacy and tell culture through stories.

FORCE 03

Consistency

Sustain over time. Measure to keep it alive, accelerate with discipline, learn every day and build governance that holds.

SIGNATURE THEMES

NEW IN 2026

AI took the seat first

While HR was still asking for a seat at the table, the AI agenda reached the board — without the people function in the room. What changes in the people equation over the next 24 months.

THEME 02

The New Code of Change

Why cultural transformation is a discipline — method, rhythm and decision — and not an event. The manifesto keynote from the book.

THEME 03

The gap between talk and practice

What separates the values a company declares from the ones it lives — and how to measure and close that gap.

THEME 04

The yellow plateau of young talent

What research with 4,991 interns reveals about engaging and retaining the new generation.
